

Let's show our solidarity

Yes to a decent minimum salary for the teachers/language trainers working in the European Institutions.

Following a recent call for tender launched by the European Commission, the winning communication agency is offering teachers an hourly rate which is 30 – 50% lower than that currently paid by language schools operating in the Institutions. Once they have paid their social security and taxes, teachers will scarcely be earning 13€ an hour.

This is completely unacceptable and does not allow our teaching colleagues to earn a decent living, something which is already difficult on their current salary.

The European Institutions (EI) demand a lot from their teachers as far as qualifications and experience are concerned. What's more, teachers are subject to continuous assessment, and rightly so: quality is also demanded by those participating in classes.

We refuse to accept that the language trainers be underpaid. Who would be prepared to do the same work as before for a 30 – 50% pay cut?

Guaranteeing quality courses is not a luxury. The quality of work of thousands of officials is linked to their language skills and their internal promotion depends on the acquisition of these skills.

This 'always the cheapest' logic is getting out of control.

We are calling upon the EI to support the teachers by asking the schools providing language courses to keep on employing the current teachers and pay them at least the hourly rate presently in force (28.50€/hour).
